

Joe Johnson

Joe Johnson is a Canada Lands Surveyor and a British Columbia land surveyor from Salmon Arm, BC. Joe was commissioned as a BCLS in 1981 and a CLS in 1994. During his career he has worked for and been a partner in Browne Johnson Land Surveyors where he has had the opportunity to work on projects throughout British Columbia specializing in rural land and resource development.

For the past 18 years Joe has also shared his time and expertise with the profession in roles such as serving on the Board of Management of the Association of BC land surveyors and is currently a member of the Association of Canada Lands Surveyors Practice Review Committee not to mention many committees and task forces for both organizations.

During the past several years Joe has been mentoring the next generation and working through a succession planning process within his own organization. Joe will join Doug Dodge and Jean-Claude Tétreault to present a seminar on the responsibilities of an organization's key professional transitioning into retirement.
