

Hugues Landriault is the Acting Director of the Lands Administration and Additions to Reserves directorate within the Lands and Economic Development Sector of Indigenous Services Canada. He has a Bachelor of Commerce from the University of Ottawa (2000) and has since worked and developed meaningful relationships with Indigenous peoples and First Nation communities to advance their self-determination aspirations through various positions within the federal government, including the negotiations of specific claims, the management of economic development programs and more recently Indian Act land management.

