

Kåre Kykjeide is Director for the Norwegian Mapping Authority's International Services unit. He is formerly head of the Geographic infrastructure department in the Land Mapping division, with 30 years of experience within the Norwegian Mapping Authority. As Director with responsibility for National Geodata coordination, Kåre has been an essential part of building the national spatial data infrastructure in Norway since 2003. He has a wide breadth of knowledge about coordinating geographical information both nationally and internationally. As such Kåre has also been heavily involved in national coordination of INSPIRE implementation, acts as national contact point for the Arctic SDI cooperation, and he is involved in Norwegian engagement to The United Nations Initiative on Global Geospatial Information Management (UN-GGIM).